

Thomas K U E H N

PROJECT DIRECTOR • FACILITATOR

"Far better it is to dare mighty things to win glorious triumph even though checkered with failure, than to take rank with those poor spirits who never enjoy much because they live in the gray twilight that knows not victory, nor defeat."

—Theodore Roosevelt

Thomas Kuehn brings his vast experience in education, as well as government entities, to assist The Pacific Institute in its mission to bring cognitive education and effective thinking skills to those organizations most vulnerable in today's economy.

"In the current economic climate, it is public education that takes the funding blows, being forced to do more with less. This can be done, but you have to break through the attitudes and beliefs that hold you back. That's where the education of The Pacific Institute comes in."

Tom comes to the Institute from his position as Director of Buildings and Grounds for the Olympia (WA) School District. His multi-faceted work experience in organizations such as the U. S. Postal Service, Boeing, Westin Hotels and the cities of Normandy Park and Olympia allow him to be pertinent to a wide variety of organizations.

As a Project Director and Facilitator, Tom is able to marshal this experience and knowledge for the improvement of our schools and school districts – from first grade through superintendent, faculty and maintenance personnel. It is Tom's goal to bring The Pacific Institute's message of empowerment through change, self-esteem and self-realization to schools in Washington and around the United States.

Whether working with children, blue-collar workers or executives, it is Tom's commitment to excellence that comes shining through. "I figure you should practice what you preach, and preach what you practice. The concepts of The Pacific Institute have been working for me for a very long time. It is my privilege to bring them to the world."
